The Latter Overpowered and Sub-

Police Confident that He's the "Barber Shop Burglar."

in which a burglar attempted to use a a shoemaker, who says he lives at Bowery and Hester street, New York, was captured by Policeman J. J. Gillon, of the lower Fulton street station, Brooklyn, at 12.30 o'clock this morning and locked up in a cell.

In the arrest of Ryan the police believe they have made a most important capture. For several weeks complaints capture. For several weeks complaints have been pouring in at Police Headquarters from the proprietors of barber shops whose places had been broken into and robbed. The boldness of the burglar was illustrated last week, when in a single night two barber shops—one adjoining and another immediately back of the Adams street station—were broken into.

Ryan was at work trying to enter another place last night, when he was surprised and captured by Policeman Gilion. He had been successful in a burglary earlier in the evening.

Shortly before 11 o'clock last night salvatore Massino, a boy, employed by Joseph Muccio, a barber at 91 Fulton street, and who slept over the store, was awakened by the noise of somebady moving about in the store. He crept downstairs, and while denying the charge arms, and while denying the charge arms, and while denying the charge arms, and while denying the charge against her, she suddenly cried out that her baby was dying. In the court were a number of women friends. When she said her baby was dying these women crowded around, and they all shrieked together. Court Officer Sweeney, who has studied medicine, told Justice Walsh that the child was in a very bad way, and he hurried out of the court-room with the baby in his arms to hunt for a doctor. Justice Walsh refused to let the prisoner go, although all the women pleaded in chorus. Finding their prayers were of no avail they trooped out for the purpose of securing a bondsman.

"Shut up.— you! If you give an The boy was so alarm I'll kill you!"

The boy was so frightened that he let out a piercing shriek. The burgiar fied. Muccio, who had been awakened by the noise, rushed downstairs. He saw the man running along Fulton street, and raised a cry of "Stop thief."

The fleeing burgiar turned into Willow street. Joseph Gabott, of 45 Fulton street, saw him running and joined in the chase.

street, saw him running and joined in the chase. He overtook the burglar at Poplar street and reached out to grab him. The man turned quickly and dealt Gabott a stinging blow in the face, which sent him reeling into the gutter. Then he turned a corner and disappared. Several politemen searched the vicinity, but could not find him. When they returned to Muccio's shop they discovered that the burglar had stolen 75 cents from the till.

For several nights Policeman Gillon has been specially detailed to watch barber shops in the Second Precinct. At 12.30 o'clock this morning he saw a man trying to open the door of Philip Henn's barber shop, at 87 Cranberry street. He asked the man what he was doing there at that time of the morning." She nothing," said the man. The was doing there at that time of the norning.

"Oh, nothing." said the man. The boliceman recognized him as the burghar who had broken into Muccio's shop. He put out his hand to arrest him, but Ryan was too quick. He dodged, and then drawing a razor, slashed viciously at the policeman. It was Gillon's turn of get out of the way, but as he dodged the blow he drew his club and knocked the weapon from Ryan's hand. Ryan then brought another razor into play.

The blade flashed, and Gillon jumped back a couple of feet just in time to escape a blow in the face.

As Ryan raised the razor above his head to renew the attack Gillon struck him on the hand, sending the razor flying into the street. Before Ryan could renew the fight Gillon brought his club down on Ryan's head and sent him reeling to the ground. Then he slipped handcuffs on his prisoner and took him to the station-house, where an ambuance surgeton was called to dress a scalp wound that the prisoner had reserved.
